Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

The following bulletin came in the mail yesterday from the National Emergency Council: "Nevada County has received $4,002 in Rental and Benefit payments in the three years since the creation of the Africultural Adjustment Administration, it was announced by Donald Renshaw, State Director for California, The National Emergency Council. This entire amount was for the corn-hogs program."

Half the letter mail the Nugget office now receives every day comes from the various government bureaus. About a quarter of the rest of the mail is party propaganda, mostly Reublican or Democratic. A large proportion of the Democratic literature is franked. The tax payers are footing an enormous bill for postage for the New Deal which uses its frank to convince the voters that the New Deal is a success.

The unfortunate aspect of this situation for the New Dealers is that about two thirds of the newspapers of this country are aligned against the Roosevelt administration. Nevertheless they must receive and, as tax payers, making up the deficit in the postoffice department, must pay for a tremendous aggregate tonnage of propaganda mail. If publishers wished they could not possibly print all the matter that the New Deal pours into the mail, nor for that matter the somewhat lesser quantity that the Republican propagandists dump into the postoffice, with postage paid.

It must be admitted, however, that the New Dealers, are clever. The item about Nevada County hog benefits will remind the farmers of this county that there is a Santa Claus; that some few of the farmers here, either for slaughtering their little pigs or their brood sows, or exercising a pig birth control, did get $4,002 out of taxes which all of us are paying. Nothing is said about the Indian sign the United States Supreme Court put on this AAA scheme, and the innocuous desuetude, to quote Grover Cleveland, into which some of the New Deal short cuts to prosperity have fallen. But this little item about the pig money, largess that flowed for nearly two years before the Supreme Court turned off the faucet, is a timely reminder that those who receive gifts are now expected to vote for the givers. Furthermore, we have not a doubt that were the Republicans in power and engaged in spending money on a huge scale, they would propagandize at the expense of the tax payers in exactly same way as are the Democrats.

There are those who say that come what may, the New Deal administration has done this country a world of good. On this basis they say that President Roosevelt should be reelected as a reward for the good his done in his first term. They point to the CCC, the splendid training thousands of unemployed or destitute boys have received, the record they have made in suppressing forest fires and in making the forests accessible to thousands of people. All this is well worth the half billion dollars or more that it has cost. We agree heartily with this especially since most of the money went to the families of the boys, and it was handled by two branches of the Federal service, who were already employed by the government, the Army and Forest Service. CCC administration therefore entailed comparatively little additional expense. A high percentage of the money went to actual relief.

They point to the closing of the banks, and their re-opening after Federal treasury officials had given them the once over, and found them sound, as a great restorer of public confidence. It was all of that. It was a gesture, perhaps, but it worked. Public confidence was restored. The guarantee of bank deposits is another measure that has restored confidence in banks. The cost attaching to these New Deal restoratives was practically nothing, as compared with the billions spent in economic and social experiments. When one considers the two measures and their success, it seems no wonder that resentment burns that President Hoover did not do these things. Something he lacked, the courage or the audacity. For there can little question that he knew more banking, money matters and Treasury policies, than President Roosevelt. The man who inherited his fortune, immediately took the steps that the man who earned his fortune, should have taken.

The accomplishments of the New Deal that have done the country the most lasting good, it would seem, have cost the least money. It is only when we turn to his relief program and the attempt to put 10 or 12 million men back to work, that we must face the fact of the dismal and abysmal failure. It is even now, not the money spent that most Americans find fault with, it is the waste, the spending without actually putting those millions of unemployed back to work. Of course, the spending of these billions has had an effect. It has stimulated business throughout the country, in much the same way that a drink of whiskey stimulates a man. What thoughtful people fear now is the end of the whiskey supply, the morning after, that this nation now, or four years from now, must face.

AUBURN WOMAN CHARGED WITH HIT RUNNING

Mrs. Celia Christiansen of Auburn and Miss Margary Ellis, socially prominent in Marysville, and daughter of Supervisor Ellis of Yuba county, were taken into custody late Wednesday evening as hit and run drivers by Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and Deputy Sheriff Carl Larsen. Their car sideswiped the car of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McGill and guest, Mrs. Emma Gassoway, of the Wildwood Ranch in Penn Valley, when the latter group were enroute to Grass Valley. Mrs. McGill and Mrs. Gassoway were taken to Dr. Rood's sanitarium in Grass Valley and treated for cuts and bruises. Mr. McGill received a wrenched back but was able to return home. Mrs. Gassoway left the hospital Thursday forenoon and Mrs. McGill, who received 22 stitches in one arm to close gashes, will remain for a few days.

A warrant of arrest has been issued charging Mrs. Christensen with failure to stop after a collision, which is a felony. She is now under $1,000 cash bail.

Mrs. Christensen, believed to be the widow of Placer county's "slot machine" king, who was killed in a shooting affray at the opening of the Rainbow Tavern on highway 40, less than a year ago, was brought to the National Hotel in Nevada City and placed under the care of a nurse as she became hysteriical for a time. Her car, an almost new Chevrolet deluxe coupe, is in the Nevada City garage with crumpled fenders and running board on the left side. Mrs. McGill's car was crowded off the highway on a turn and into the bank and was badly damaged.

After the accident Mrs. Christensen and companion drove on toward Marysville stopping in Smartsville to try to secure some one to drive her car. Sheriff Tobiassen and Deputy Sheriff Larsen who were returning from a trip to Marysville were notified, as were Yuba county peace officers, and soon located the car and made the arrest.

NEVADA CITY BOY MAKES GOOD IN NAVY

Mrs. James Coulter of this city is in receipt of a letter from her son, Merle Coulter, in which he states he took an examination at the naval training school and was fifth from highest in his company. Only so many are selected from each company. If accepted he takes a four-month course and will then become a petty officer and be assigned to United States war ships. He has studied until he is now a yoeman in the naval service. He enrolled in the school several months ago and is stationed near San Diego.

MINE WORKERS LEAGUE WILL PICNIC AUG. 12

The Mine Workers Protective League of the Grass Valley-Nevada City district are announcing their annual picnic and dance for Wednesday, August 12 at Lake Olympia. This long established affair is given to benefit the widows and orphans of deceased mine workers. A fine orchestra has been secured for the dance.

ANOTHER CHARGE AGAINST BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

That the State Board of Equalization, through its liquor enforcement officers, is trying to swing elections in the assembly and senate districts to its friends, as was charged in an open letter last week in the Nugget, addressed to the chairman of that board, Richard Collins, is affirmed by the protest of Mrs. Ellen K. Collins, Democratic assembly candidate from the second district. She states that she has a letter which Dewey E Eagan chief enforcement officer for the Trinity district, addressed to a state-licensed liquor dealer near Redding, to support her opponent for office, Clinton J Fulcher.

The Sacramento Bee reports:

The statement issued by Mrs. Collins also charges that Eagan, using a state car on which private license plates have been placed, has been carrying Fulcher campaign literature about Trinity county, one of the seven counties of the second assembly district. The others are Modoc, Siskiyou, Shasta, Lassen, Plumas and Sierra.

Chairman Collins of the equalization board denied knowledge of any campaigning on state time in the northern district, but said he will make an investigation.

"Eagan asked me what the rule would be," Collins said, "and I showed him an opinion from the attorney general and told him that he could work for Fulcher in the campaign if he did so on his own time. I'll inquire into these charges. I don't think Eagan is doing any campaign work on state time. If he or any other Redding district board employe is doing that, it is not with my knowledge and consent."

Similar charges of campaigning by equalization board employes for an incumbent legislator recently were made by R. L. P. Bigelow of Nevada county, who is running against Senator Jerrold L. Seawell of Placer county. Chairman Collins said, in that case, he has no objections to his board employes working for Seawell if they do it on their own time.

ARBOGAST HAS IMPROVED MANY MILES OF ROADS

With only $11,000 to spend on 135 miles of county roads in his district, Supervisor Cary S. Arbogast has given the major part of his time to improving the roads. He has given those roads which show the most traffic the preference and all told has spread on them something over 100,000 yards of broken rock.

There was the Banner-Lava Cap, which formerly was little better than a muddy trench in the winter time and a dust storm in the summer time. He has widened it and spread over 4,000 yards of rock upon it.

The lower Grass Valley road from the city limits to Glenbrook, he has widened, covered a part with rock, and oiled, and expects to complete the job in the near future. The Quaker Hill road has been widened and improved, and 200 yards of broken rock spread on it.

The roads in the immediate vicinity of Nevada City are 100 per cent better than they were four years ago, and considering the small amount of money which Supervisor Arbogast had to work with he has accomplished an extraordinary improvement.

The court house is beginning to take on a modern appearance with adequate room for the county officers to take care of the growing need of this county. The addition on the western side is now practically complete and Supervisor Arbogast is proud of his share in having brought this ancient structure to an up-to-date efficiency. With the contract soon to be let for the completion of the remodeling, this building will soon become a matter of pride for all residents of the county.

It should be noted that the stone portico over the entrance of the court house is to be given to Pioneers Park. It will be erected there as a part of the landscape scheme.

LIQUOR SALE TO INDIANS LEADS TO 4 ARRESTS

Russell B. Farley, enforcement officer for the State Board of Equalization, netted five arrests in a series of raids, in which he was assisted by Fred J. Graves of the U. S. Indian Service Bureau. The raids were made in Nevada, Sierra and Yuba counties. The following arrests were made:

Charles Wilson of Wilson's Log Cabin on the Yuba Pass highway, holding a commission as a United States postmaster, four charges of selling liquor to Indians, possession of whiskey on a beer and wine license, operating public bar and displaying illegal signs. Wilson pleaded guilty to the last three charges and paid a fine of $75 in Judge Acton Cleveland's court at Camptonville. He will appear before the United States Commissioner at Sacramento at 10 a. m. Monday, August 10 on the charge of selling to Indians.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Landry, operators of the Montana Cafe, Nevada City, charged with selling liquor to Indians and appeared before the United States Commissioner at Sacramento yesterday.

Nevada Rooms, Mrs. Ray Pabst, manager, on East Main street, Grass Valley, opposite the city hall, charged with selling liquor without a license and selling liquor to Indians. She will appear before the United States Commissioner on the federal charge.

Walter Dolly, Monte Carlo Cafe, Sierraville, selling liquor to Indians and selling liquor to minors. He paid a fine of $50 for selling to minors and posted a $2000 bond to appear before the United States Commission on selling to Indians.

In several of the above cases two wholesale liquor dealers in Nevada county were found to have violated state laws and charges against them will be filed in due course.

This District Needs State Senator Devoted To Mining Interest

Indifferent representation of the Sierra, Placer and Nevada county mining district in the Legislature will be supplanted by a sincere attempt to introduce legislation favorable to the industry if Richard L. P. Bigelow is elected state senator.

Bigelow, for thirty years a friend of mining men in his various forest service capacities—is anxious to better the seventh district senatorial record made during the 51st session. It consisted of two bills, neither of which received even committee approval.

The two senate bills, a small proportion of the 16 relating to mining, accurately testify to the district's representation in the past. From a man avowedly dedicated to the industry's interests came only these proposed acts:

(1) "To provide for operation of gold mining properties by the state directly or through state agencies or public corporations."

(2) "To amend the placer mining district act by adding new sections thereto, relating to state operation of gold mining properties, directly or through state agencies or public corporations."

Bigelow contends that the senator from one of the richest, most industrious mining sections of California should assume a more active position in the legislative chamber.

"I am strong for the mining industry," he declares. "In the legislature I plan to ask for an appropriation to conduct a mining survey of California so that a definite chart of the mineral resources can be made.

"And why a survey of this sort? Frankly, to attract eastern capital."

"Dick" Bigelow, who always impresses people as definitely not a "politician" opposes governmental extravagance, is an ardent advocate of economy and promises to discourage legislation tending to increase the already heavy load on the taxpayers' shoulders.

They call Bigelow the dean of forest rangers in California. His first ranger job was in 1902 in the King's River Canyon district, Fresno county—now famed Sequoia National Forest. Promotion followed swiftly as his abilities were discovered—head ranger of Inyo county, 1903—supervisor of Trinity National Forest, 1905—supervisor, Klamath National Forest, 1906—supervisor of Tahoe National Forest, 1908.

So passed years of good service to the people of California. He feels now—with valuable experience behind—"I can be of greater assistance to the people in Placer, Sierra and Nevada counties in the state senate than in any other position I might accept."

At 62 "Dick" Bigelow—his ruddy face attesting to clean outdoor life—looks forward to a new career with youthful enthusiasm. But to him it would be merely continuation in another guise of meritorious efforts for the betterment of his fellow citizens.

Freedom Of The Press

(Contributed)

Just two hundred and one years ago this week, there began in New York one of the most significant court trials in the history of mankind. Its outcome established the principle that has permitted American democracy to survive, the one basic liberty that is the preserver of all other rights of men.

The principle was freedom of the press.

On August 4, 1735, when this trial began, it did not seem so momentous. John Peter Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, was charged with libel for having criticized the administration of Governor Cosby. The jury solemnly considered this accusation that is so inconceivable to us today. Then it brought in a verdict of acquittal. Historians have since marked the date as the beginning of true freedom of the press in the United States.

John Peter Zenger died in 1746. His Weekly Journal was continued for three years by his wife and son. Then the press and type were sold at auction.

Imagine what it would be like in America today if the press through two hundred years had been forbidden to criticize the acts and policies of a government in office. One need not even imagine it. Merely looking at any of the dictatorships of Europe makes the picture quite clear.

A Word Of Warning

(Contributed)

Californians who know that the proposed Sales Tax Repeal Act is nothing more than the oft-defeated Single Tax under an alias, will be glad to hear that suit has just been filed asking the Supreme Court to rule the measure off the November ballot.

A word of warning, however, is very much in order. Any disposition on the part of voters to become less vigilant now on the assumption that the Court will act, might very well prove fatal.

Mrs. Gertrude Clark, President of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, who brought the suit, charges that signatures to qualify the Single Tax amendment were secured by deceit and misrepresentation. Even if this is recognized as ethically obvious the Court must decide on legal points. The outcome, on this basis, is problematical. In any case, a decision will not be forthcoming until late September, or possibly October. That will be a scant month before the election. And it is more than possible that the decision will leave the Single Tax amendment on the ballot.

There are still many citizens who, thinking the measure is what its title pretends, stand ready to vote for Sales Tax repeal. If ballots were cast today, perhaps there would be enough of these to put the amendment across.

New Deal's Blundering Policies Keep Millions Idle, Says Knox

Specific Broadsides Hurled by "Fighting Colonel" During His Acceptance Speech.

Chicago.—The vague, unsuccessful economic experiments known as the New Deal were charged with "delaying recovery" and "with responsibility for the ten million still unemployed" by Colonel Frank Knox in his address accepting the Republican nomination for vice-president. Colonel Knox spoke before a wildly enthusiastic crowd which filled to overflowing the huge Chicago stadium.

Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon gave the official address of notification. In his opening remarks, Colonel Knox pointed out that Senator Steiwer had struck the keynote of the campaign with "his clear call to all citizens to join in a crusade for sound government in America." After accepting this call to service, the vice-presidential nominee referred briefly to the fact "he began to work as a small boy in a small town in Michigan."

He epitomized his war service when he said: "Long years ago I learned as a buck private the lessons of duty and loyalty."

"In this spirit of service, I accept the call of my party. I pledge myself to the principles of sound and honest government. I pledge my personal loyalty to that great governor of a prairie state, the next President of the United States, the Honorable Alf Landon."

People to Decide

Colonel Knox then pointed out that in the coming election it will be necessary for the people to decide whether the "administration in office has met its responsibilities honestly and fairly and wisely."

"From the day that it took office," Colonel Knox said, "it embarked on a series of hysterical experiments on the economic life of a burdened people. At a time when universal cooperation was a necessity, it initiated a campaign of abuse and vilification of business men. At a time when the credit of the country should have been strengthened it inaugurated a policy of credit adulteration and currency experiment that demoralized foreign trade and frightened domestic finance. It set up a system of regimentation of industry that reduced production and prevented reemployment. By coercion of Congress it forced the passage of reform measures so recklessly drawn that they hamstrung the revival of enterprise and paralyzed the renewal of investment. It installed a regimentation of agriculture that destroyed food and reduced foreign markets and increased the cost of living and multiplied the expense of relief.

"At a time when private industry was struggling desperately for a new start it set up governmental enterprise to compete with private business. At a time when the burden of taxation was already hard to bear it embarked on a policy of squandering public funds and increasing the weight of taxes. At a time when united effort and mutual good will would have completed recovery it promoted sectional hatred and class strife. At a time when returning business confidence was ending depression it began a campaign to terrorize business and subjugate the banks. At a time when confidence in the character of government was vital, it established a spoils system. At a time when the economic system was worn and emaciated it performed major surgical operations upon the industrial body to see what was inside. It adopted an economic philosophy of scarcity and forced it upon a hungry and distressed people."

Even though the New Deal "failed in its job," Colonel Knox declared that recovery could not be permanently blocked by "governmental error," but only "retarded and discouraged."

Delays Recovery.

Without mincing words and straight from the shoulder came his:

"I charge the present administration with delaying recovery, in the United States and in the world. I charge the present administration with responsibility for the ten million still unemployed."

The nominee next turned his attention to the broad view of the New Deal, which he described as "This policy of government by guess, officially explained by President Roosevelt as founded on a philosophy of try-anything-once. It began with a proposal for a belt of trees in a territory that Nature had decided should not have trees. It is ending with the use of public funds to conduct classes in tap-dancing."

Colonel Knox pointed out the major New Deal agencies, the AAA, the PWA, the CWA, the WPA and devaluation of the dollar were old in history before America was discovered and that they had failed in Babylon, Rome and England centuries ago.

"In reviewing the principles of the Republican party, the nominee asserted that "It disapproves a government of men instead of a government of law. It prefers a government guided by constitutions to a government guided only by caprice."

A minute later, Colonel Knox gave a pledge to the people with the statement:

"Whatever concrete measures the Republican Party has in mind will be presented to the voters before election, not after. And whatever measures the Republican administration may urge upon Congress, not one will flout the Constitution of the United States. Not one will violate the obligation of contracts. Not one will break a promise."

Earlier in his address, the candidate had referred to the fact that the New Deal plans and experiments were not contained in the 1936 Democratic platform.

Amateur Experimenters.

Avoiding any and all mention of personalities, Colonel Knox drove home telling blow after telling blow:

"For more than three years the economic life of the country has been at the mercy of a crew of amateur experimenters, hacking at the vitals of American industry, agriculture, commerce and finance."

"It is now a race between exhaustion of Federal credit and the coming of natural recovery. It is a race between inflation and the revival of normal business activity."

"It (the New Deal) means Federal control over local business, over local bank credit, over local wages, over local conditions of work. It leads to Federal regimentation of the labor, the business, and the home of every American citizen. It leads to price-fixing and production control by Federal authority. It leads inevitably to the extinction of the small business man, to the end of free enterprise in America."

Coercive Control.

Colonel Knox specifically referred to the New Deal monetary policy with the declaration that "coercive control of bank credit leads unavoidably to control of investment and that leads to the end of competitive industry and free enterprise." Mentioning Mr. Roosevelt by name, the nominee asserted "no one man can successfully guide the course of industry for a great nation."

After stating his belief that the American people do not desire "to reorganize the American economic system by experiment," Colonel Knox said:

"The people want recovery, not rhetoric. They want economy, not waste. They want work, not relief. They want cooperation among the partners in production, not industrial strife. They want order in economic life, not an occasional breathing spell. They want dignity in government, not a merry-go-round."

In his final statements, Colonel Knox turned to what the people can expect from the Republican party and asserted that the Republican platform appeals to the "whole people", to the "sincere Democrats" and to the "millions of thrifty and hard-working people". He continued:

"It (The Republican party) does promise a fair and honest government. It does promise that this government will be as economical and efficient as it can be made. It does promise to make every effort to install sensible and practical measures to help in the solution of the problems of trade and industry and agriculture, the problems of poverty and insecurity."

"Telling Blows"

Highlights taken from the acceptance speech of Colonel Frank Knox, Republican candidate for vice president, at Chicago Stadium, July 30, 1936:

I charge the present administration with delaying recovery in the United States and the world.

* * *

The coercive control of bank credit leads unavoidably to control of investment and that leads to the end of competitive industry and free enterprise.

* * *

All the major New Deal experiments have ended in failure and economic loss.

* * *

Next November you will choose the American way.

* * *

America is too young, too vigorous, to be deceived by false promises of an easy way.

* * *

The people know that with election of a new administration next November the dammed up forces of recovery will burst forth in a magnificent prosperity.

* * *

With the American system preserved, we shall . . . have a free people, living in plenty and security, without exploitation of destitution.

Wheat Imports Jump Rapidly

United States Now Buys 40 Million Bushels From Other Nations.

By FRANK RIDGWAY

Gears of international trade machinery have been thrown in reverse to the extent that the United States is today the world's largest wheat importer, with the single exception of Great Britain, including North Ireland. In that regrettable position this nation has imported from foreign countries more than 40 million bushels of wheat within the past year.

For at least 70 years, this country had been a net exporter of wheat. A dozen years ago, farmers bragged about selling to foreign countries more than 259 million bushels of wheat in one year, exceeding the exports of any other country in the world. Today, they are forced to stand by and watch foreign growers sell wheat to America's customers abroad. They also are supplying a large part of the market here at home.

Government Tinkering

This revolutionary change has been brought about not only by drouths, but also by government tinkering with production and foreign trade policies. Had there been no government meddling, our growers would have had more wheat to sell during the next 12 months when prices are expected to be higher than they have been for several years.

After three years experience under a crop and livestock production program dictated to them by officials of a centralized government, many practical farmers feel that they would have done a better job acting individually. They must pay their share of the New Deal dole money sent out to individual farmers for reducing their production which has contributed to the present predicament.

Farmers had been told by political planners that the reduced production of farm products, brought about by adverse weather conditions and by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program, had been good for them. As they now stand looking backward, each farmer is better able to appraise for himself what the drouth and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration did for him and decide as an individual whether it has been good or bad.

Pay Higher Prices

Producers, working under various handicaps, are now threshing a wheat crop estimated to be approximately 638 million bushels, more than 145 million bushels less than the five-year average from 1929 to 1933. It will again be necessary for the United States to bring in large quantities of hard wheat to blend with soft wheat during the next year. Our millers will be forced to pay a higher price plus 42 cents a bushel duty because Canada's wheat crop is short.

When the wheat drills start this fall, many United States growers are expected to make their own decisions as to the number of acres they will plant and encourage their neighbors to do likewise.

Lincoln, Landon Have Same Initials

Mrs. Wilma D. Hoyal, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, isn't superstitious, but she points out that Abe Lincoln and Alf Landon have the same initials.

"Abe Lincoln," says Mrs. Hoyal, "brought our country through its greatest crisis in the 19th century. If there is any significance in this repetition, Alf Landon surely will be elected to do the same for us in the 20th century."

NEW LOG HOME FOR DON BILLICK

Contractor J. W. Johns has practically completed a beautiful log cottage home for Mr. and Mrs. Don Carlos Billick at the end of Grove street just east of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Draper, and Mr. and Mrs. Billick will move in next week.

Electricity is being brought to the house this week and the inside of the building is receiving a coat of stain and finishing materials. The house consists of a large living room, dining room, kitchen on the first floor, and two bedrooms upstairs. A garage is in the basement. Logs for the home were hauled from Willow Valley and are artistically placed as they were hewn and laid in position. A large chimney of country rock and mortar is to the southwest of the living room. Mr. and Mrs. Billick purchased an acre and a half of pine tree covered land from Mr. and Mrs. Draper, last summer. Landscaping is going forward and will extend to Deer Creek on the south when completed. Stepping stones are placed around part of the home and to the driveway.

NEVADA COUNTY PEARS TO MOVE NEXT WEEK

Nevada County pears will start to market in about another week. Agricultural Commissioner L. G. Lageson estimates a one third crop which is about two weeks late due to the late spring season. Paul Ulrich, Chicago Park pear grower has a 50 per cent crop in his large orchard and it is above normal in quantity. It is expected Herbert Hartung, Pleasant Valley orchardist who has quite a large orchard, will be about the first to start picking fruit. This ranch is located in the warm thermal belt west of Nevada City several miles.

Mrs. W. Morrison of Arbuckle is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. R. Carter on upper Nevada street.

AUTO LICENSE FEES NET NEVADA COUNTY $9,023

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—With 2,245,042 motor vehicles "tagged" in the first six months of this year, Gov. Frank F. Merriam today announced collection of registration fees has provided an apportionment of $6,295,526 for construction and maintenance of roads and highwas.

Of the total apportionment, $3,147,763 will go to the 58 county governments for road development. A like sum will be made available to department of public works for state highway projects.

"The record registration of motor vehicles in the period from January 1 to June 30," said Governor Merriam, "brings an increase of 167,292 cars on California's highways, compared with the first six months of 1935 and a gain of $729,940 for apportionment to state and county road development. Especially interesting is the fact that registration for the first six months of this year lack but 9,786 to equal the total of the entire year of 1935, when 2,254,828 cars were licensed for a California annual record. Certainly, these figures definitely indicate that the state is marching along to a new high mark in prosperity."

Pleasure car registration, in the first six months of this year, totalled 2,011,467, a gain of 140,844 compared with the same period of 1935. Other regiseration from January 1 to June 30th this year included 2,595 solid-tired trucks, 129,805 pneumatic tired.

Nevada county, with a total of 6,436 motor vehicles registered in the first six months of this year, will obtain $9,023.89 for local road building and maintenance of the present system.

The value of each Nevada county vehicle registration in terms of road development here amounts to $1.402.

BLIND BARITONE IS 'CALIFORNIA HOUR' WINNER

A blind singer, whose eyes have never rested on a woman's face, won the Stanislaus and Merced County tournament of "California's Hour," by singing praises to the starry eyes of "Sylvia."

Listeners of the Don Lee network have pronounced Frank O'Neill, hightless baritone from Modesto, winner of last Monday's radio contest of the popular variety program.

Next Monday, August 10, Conrad Nagel will direct his weekly salute to the metropolis of the Southwest, the city of Los Angeles, and present six of its outstanding artists, culled from thousands of aspiring musicians.

O'Neill, whose winning selection last Monday was "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks, has been blind since birth by 11 years of training at the Berkeley School for Blind have helped him overcome his affliction.

He is a professional night club entertainer in Modesto, a crack boxer and makes cabinets as a hobby. He sees the world through the eyes of his wife, a charming Irish girl, whom he married two and a half years ago.

AUBURN—CALIFORNIA

Mission Santa Ynez Was Founded In 1804

In the year 1776, the Franciscan explorer, Fr. Hermenegildo Francisco Garces of Mission San Javier del Bec, Arizona, led an expedition into the interior of California and in Tulare Valley found a warlike tribe of Indians known as the Tulares. Here was a fertile missionary field, but because of the hositility of the natives and the desire of the Franciscans to complete their chain of missions in California no attempt to convert these savages was made for more than two decades.

Twenty two years after the explorations of Fr. Garces, a military party was sent out from Santa Barbara by Father Fermin de Lasuen, Superior of the Missions, with instructions to locate a suitable site for a station between Mission Santa Barbara and Mission Le Purisima Concepcion. With this force went Father Estevan Tapis.

Fate decreed that Fr. Tapis not only was to be the discoverer of the spot on which the new mission, Santa Ynez, was to be located, but the founder as well. Four years later on September 17, 1804, he raised the cross, blessed the water and site and established the nineteenth of the California missions on a rancheria called by the Indians Alajulapu and which today is located three miles east of Buellton in Santa Barbara county. Fr. Tapis then was Superior of the Missions, having succeeded Fr. Lasuen, who died before he, himself, could found the new station.

Mission Santa Ynez was placed in a valley between the Santa Ynez and San Rafael mountains inhabited by Indian tribes that maintained intercourse with the fierce savages called the Tulares. It was the hope of Fr. Tapis that through mission converts he could carry Christianity to the pagans of the eastern sierras.

Fr. Tapis baptized twenty seven children of natives the day he founded Santa Ynez, which he dedicated to Virgin and Martyr, Saint Agnes. Fr. Tapis left Fathers Jose Antonio Calzada and Romualdo Gutierrez in charge. At the close of the year, Santa Ynez had 112 Indian converts and at the beginning of 1806 its rolls carried a total of 570 neiphytes, including 132 from Mission Santa Barbara and 145 from La Purisima Concepcion.

From 1804 to 1812 an extensive building program was carried on. The walls of the church, habitations for the padres, dwellings for the soldiers and their families, adobe homes for the Indian converts, warehouses, granaries and other structures were of abode and about 30 inches thick. In the year 1812 more than 80 houses were built.

On December 21, 1812, much of the work of the padres was undone by an earthquake which rendered the church unserviceable and demolished the walls of many of the mission buildings. The following year a long structure was erected to serve as a church and it was not until 1817 that the new church, the ruins of which stand restored today, was completed. It was dedicated July 4, 1817. Its interior was modeled after the Santa Barbara mission temple. Fr. Francisco Xavier Uria and Fr. Ulibarri, continued building operations up to 1824 and obtained many beautiful vestments, furnishings and other church goods. When Fr. Uria took charge in 1808 there were 441 converts. His last baptism on February 17, 1824, was numbered 1227.

Beginning in 1810 when Mexico's revolt against Spain began, Mission Santa Ynez, in common with the other missions, received no further aid from Mexico and was compelled not only to support itself but to provide food, clothing and money for the garrison at Santa Barbara. The Santa Ynez Indians resented being compelled to work for the idle soldiers and this resentment flared into rebellion on February 21, 1824. As we have seen in the story of Mission Santa Barbara, the uprising extended to that station and to Mission Purisima Concepcion.

The Indians set fire to many buildings at Santa Ynez, but when it appeared the flames would destroy the church their anger subsided and they helped save the edifice. All the workshops, soldiers' barracks and habitations of the guards were destroyed. The revolting natives fled to the Tulares, after causing great destruction at Santa Barbara and Purisima Concepcion Several of them were killed.

In a letter to Don Lucas Alaman, Minister of Relations, in Mexico, the Fr. Guardian of the College of San Fernando de Mexico, sponsor of the Franciscan missions, wrote:

"The revolt was not against the missionaries; on the contrary, the revolting Indians wanted to have the Fathers go along with them, and told them they would be cared for. It may be said with truth that the missions alone, or the labor of the down-hearted neophytes, have sustained the troops since 1810. The Indians complain bitterly that they are toiling so that the soldiers may eat, and that they receive nothing for their labor."

During all the period from the revolt up to 1834, when Mission Santa Ynez was fighting to survive under the oppression of a succession of civil admnistrations in California, the resident padres continued building. In August, 1943, all the missions were secularized, but Santa Ynez was not violently dealt with until 1936. In June of that year, the newly appointed governor, Mariano Chico, enroute from Monterey to Los Angeles, arrived unexpectedly at Santa Ynez.

Fathers Jose and Antonio Jimeno had not been notified of the governor's coming and were unprepared to receive him ceremoniously. Chico professed to be highly insulted and proceeded on to Santa Barbara, where he demanded of Fr. Presidente Duran that the two padres forthwith surrender the mission to Jose Maria Ramirez, civil commissioner. Because Fr. Duran defended his colleagues, he was ordered banished by the governor, but, as related in the story of Santa Barbara, the people of Santa Barbara sided with the Fr. Presidente and prevented execution of the order.

Mission Santa Ynez was turned over to Ramirez in July, 1836 and he placed it in charge of Jose M. Covarrubias, who was named administrator. The mission and property was valued at $56,437.62, less debts amouting to $5,475 A year later, Francisco Cota became administrator when William Hartnell, inspector for the mission under Governor Alvarado, arrived at Santa Ynez in May, 1839, he found conditions there deplorable.

Manuel Micheltorena came from Mexico to California as governor on August 25, 1842, with instructions from the Mexican government to return all missions to the Franciscans. On March 29, 1843, he carried out these orders in an official decree. And on March 16, 1844, Micheltorena, at the request of Father Jimeno and Juan Moreno of Santa Ynez and Fr. Francisco Sanchez of the seminary at Santa Barbara deeded to the padres land on which to erect a seminary college, granted them $500 a year for school maintenance and later gave additional land which placed a total of 35,499 acres under control of the college.

The plan for an ecclesiastical seminary was conceived by Bishop Francisco Garcia Diego y Moreno and on May 4, 1844, with the bishop and other church dignitaries present, the College of Our Lady de Refugio was founded. The happiness of the bishop and the fathers of Santa Ynez was destroyed a year later when Pio Pico and his followers drove Micheltoreno out of California and Pico immediately schemed to confiscate the mission and its lands.

"The priucipal object which guided me," Pico wrote in his Narracion Historica, "was to make the rule of the missions disappear completely."

Pico succeeded in doing just this. He first leased and then sold Santa Ynez to Jose M. Covarrubias and Joaquin Carrillo for $7,000 on June 15, 1846. Three weeks later the American flag was raised at Monterey and Pico fled to Mexico, leaving the ruined California missions behind him.

Fr J. J. Jimeno and Fr. Francisco Sanchez continued to conduct the college until May 7, 1850, when they turned the institution over to Rev. Theodosius Bousseler and Rev. Felix Migorel of the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary. In 1868 the Franciscan Brothers took charge and in turn were succeeded by the Christian Brothers, who took over in 1877 at the request of Archbishop Alemany and served until 1882, when the school was closed and the college's 36,000 acres sold by Alemany for the diocese. The mission had been returned to the Catholic church on May 23, 1862, by President Lincoln.

One of the most interesting periods in the modern day history of Santa Ynez began in November, 1882, when Fr. Michael Lynch, who had succeeded Fr. Juan Basso in 1875, invited Thomas James Donohue and his family of Gilroy, to come to the mission to live. Donohue was a carpenter and stone mason and he and his sons made many needed repairs with the help of Fr. Lynch and Fr. Farrelly. Donodue's daughter, Katherine, has written a most interesting account of the years they were at Santa Ynez. She tells of Old Rafael, aged Indian, who devotedly took care of the church for many years and of Fernando Cardenas, known as Fendandito, who came from Ecuador as a boy and lived his life at Santa Ynez, a beloved character. He died at Santa Barbara in 1919.

In June, 1904, Fr. Alexander Buckler was appointed pastor of Mission Santa Ynez and of Lompoc and Sisquoc and the surviving Indians. He was directed by Bishop Thomas James Conaty, D. D., of Los Angeles, to restore the mission buildings. He labored at this task faithfully until his death on March 7, 1930. He was assisted by his niece, Miss Mary Goulet, who came from Minnesota to aid him. She is the author of a priceless record of Father Buckler's heroic efforts to restore the old mission.

Mission Santa Ynez is what it is today because of the work of Fr.

JACK WOLF IS STILL BOOSTING

Editor the Chronicle:

Sir: Your stand on breaking the Altamont bottleneck, as shown in your editorial of July 21, will find wide agreement. However, when you say "There is an increasing sentiment in the state that traffic load should determine where the state money is to be spent. It is based on the sound principle of the greatest good to the greatest number" you have given us food for thought. There is no question but that a heavily congested highway should be rebuilt, if necessary, to adequately handle the traffic., But if the "sound principle" to which you referred were to be blindly followed it would result in a constant building up of the already good highways at the expense of the multitude of poor highways.

For example, the Nevada City-Downieville State highway, in a distance of 47 miles, traverses the three beautiful canyons of the south, middle and north forks of the Yuba river. It is the most direct road from California's metropolitan areas to the Sierra buttes country, in the heart of which lies Sierra City—13 miles beyond Downieville on a fine, high type highway constructed by the United States Bureau of Roads at a cost of approximately one quarter million dollars. But for us to reach this, one of the most magnificent mountain regions on the North American continent, it is necessary to drive around more than 950 turns over a narrow and dangerous road.

Californians today drive to the lakes of Glacier National Park, to Lake Louise and others in the Canadian Rockies—because good highways lead to these mountain—rimmed gems. At the northern foot of the Sierra buttes, a half mile (almost vertically) below the glacier that nestles just below the peak, sparkles the Upper Sardine lake. How many Californians have ever heard of this Upper Sardine lake? And yet this magnificent lake lies within 200 miles of San Francisco bay. European travelers say that in Switzerland is not its peer; others at home in the Canadian Rockies say that it equals Lake Louise and the Morraine lakes.

However, if the traffic count is to determine where California's road building funds are to be spent, none but the hardy will ever thrill to California's breath taking Sierra Buttes region. In the mantime, the Bayshore highway will expand to 16 lanes—pyramiding between this additional lanes and increasing traffic count .

Then San Franciscans will have to spend their vacations on the ever broadening highways—or hire a pack horse if they must get into the Sierra Nevada.

J. L. WOLF,
San Francisco, California, July 22, 1936.

DYNAMITE USED IN WATER ROW, CAMPTONVILLE

CAMPTONVILLE, Aug. 6.—As the result of a blast which destroyed a concrete bulkhead on the property of F. W. Meggers, while Meggers, Jacob Dietrich and J. W. Morehead were in court at Marysville, warrants of arrest were issued in the local justice court for Mrs. Rachael M. Labadie, local hotel proprietor, Cal Herman, prominent wrestling of Marysville, and William Labadie and Floyd Thomas, Browns Valley ranchers. Mrs. Labadie was placed under arrest by Constable John M. Jaynes and admitted to $100 bail.

The dynamiting grew out of trouble and litigation still pending between Mrs. Labadie and Meggers over the ownership of Bucks Spring. The matter is being appealed to the appellate court. The charges preferred against the above named persons for the blasting are malicious mischief, using dynamite to destroy a dam, etc., and using dynamite between May and October without a permit.

SNIPERS LEAVE CREEKS FOR FRUIT HARVESTS

John Beeson, who is sniping on Kanaka Creek at Alleghany was a Nevada City visitor yesterday and sold his nuggets and coarse gold. He stated the stream has been worked and reworked so often that it is hard to find much gold. Many of the snipers along the streams are leaving to look for work or to follow the fruit harvests for wodk in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Edminster and two children of this city are spending a vacation in Nevada state visiting Mrs. Edminster's parents.

TWENTY MINERS NOW EMPLOYED AT GRACEY

In reconditioning the mill at the Gracey mine southeast of Nevada City equipment has been installed to give it 100 tons per day capacity. A new ball mill and compressor are part of the equipment in the mill. Twenty men are employed and this number will be increased to thirty within a few days as the company is to start immediately on sinking an additional 200 feet to develop more ore. Drifting on the vein will start at the same time. The day crew will start first or as soon as the compressor is installed. Mr. George Tett of San Francisco is in charge of the property.

LIGHTNING SETS FIRES; CCC BOYS PUT THEM OUT

A lightning storm over the Sierraville district northeast of Loyalton struck in four places early Tuesday morning setting fires in rapid succession. Two of these were put out by local fire guards. The other two were more difficult to control, due to wind and topographical conditions, and soon united into one large fire which spread rapidly, covering 1500 acres before being brought under control Wednesday forenoon. This is a very dry section of scattering trees and brush where the wind is always blowing, the pitch in the pines and dry heat spread the flames swiftly. Fortunately no one was injured, and no homes, nor ranch properties destroyed.

Superintendent DeWitt Nelson from the Nevada City office and Ranger F. A. Land of the Sierraville area, Tahoe National Forest, were on the fire. CCC boys from the Plumas National Forest, Reno Reclamation Park Service, and the Tahoe Forest camp at White Cloud, east of this city, were used to check the big fire. Forest service officials asserted the well trained CCC boys prevented this from becoming a far more serious fire.

Mr. Donald Strandberg returned Monday from a business trip of several days in San Francisco.

MURCHIE MINE TO SINK SHAFT 500 FEET DEEPER

It is reported the Newmont interests operating the Murchie mine east of Nevada City will sink two more levels in the main shaft, or approximately another 500 feet. The shaft is down 1850 feet at present and it is stated from reliable sources the ore is showing up well. A cement foundation has just been completed for a large new hoist.

In recent months the Newmont company has added to their holdings east of Nevada City until they now control several hundred acres. In this list are the North Banner, south of the Murchie; and in the Willow Valley area to the north, all of the Texas mine ground, Genasci property, the ground of the late Alec Durbin, Hughes ground, and it is understood the property of the late A. J. Edminster.

This is the largest mine in the Nevada City district and employs over 300 men. Mr. George Kervin of Nevada City is superintendent.

DEMAND FOR MINING MACHINERY INCREASES

Messrs. Hal Draper and Jack McCardle visited several mines in southern Nevada county and around Auburn Tuesday and Wednesday and sold several lots of machinery. Among these mines were Rising Sun where a sinking program is in progress; Stockton Hill, which is installing new machinery; Maben Hill mine, where good ore is being mined; Paramout Mine near Auburn which is to reopen soon. Golden Center mine in Grass Valley, and the old Thomas diggin's taken over recently by E. C. Jacobs of Nevada City. They found it quite warm on the trip, the thermometer registering 112 degrees at the Maben Hill mine.

WALL FOR CHEIM BLDG. FINISHED

Forms are off the cement wall on the Deer Creek side of the Cheim property at the Plaza. Gas tanks are installed and fixtures are being arranged for the service station. A hundred or more loads of earth have been dumped into the old basement where a large two story barn formerly stood at the stream edge, and along the big cement drain pipe running through the property.

Miss Iola Barnes and mother, Mrs. Georgia Jacobson, of Salinas, who have been visiting in Nevada City for several weeks, left Tuesday. They will visit in Sacramento and Fresno before going home. Both are former Nevada City residents.

L. R. ROBINS DEVELOPS QUICK SILVER MINE

The Buckeye Syndicate, controlled by L. R. Robins, L. H. Baker and Nevada state associates, has installed a large rotary furnace on the Wideawake quick-silver property of 2000 acres west of Williams, in the coast range, Colusa county, purchased recently from A. A. Gibson. The plant has a daily capacity of 25 to 30 tons per day. It will operate on the ore dump until the mine is unwatered. It is estimated 84,000 tons of commercial ore is ready to mine from the surface to the 400 foot level. Conditions are favorable for development of additional reserves of ore. Mr. L. R. Robins resided in Nevada City for about three years, where he was interested in mining.

BRYAN'S PAPER QUITS NEW DEAL; FEARS DICTATOR

Democratic Organ for 50 Years Deserts Party.

OMAHA, Nev., Aug. 6.—(Special)—The Omaha World-Herald, for 50 years one of the middle west's leading Democratic newspapers has declared against the Roosevelt regime and all its works. William J. Bryan was once the editor of the World-Herald and subsequently it was the recognized Bryan organ through all his presidential campaigns. It has since been consistently Democratic under the direction of the late Senator G. M. Hitchcock, one of President Wilson's closest advisers.

An editorial in the World-Herald quotes from President Roosevelt's acceptance speech as follows:

"In this world of ours, in other lands, there are some people who have lived and fought for freedom, and seem to have grown too weary to carry on the fight. They have sold their heritage of freedom for the illusion of a living. They have yielded their democracy."

Masses "Nailed to Cross"

With this paragraph as a theme, and after referring to Germany and Hitler, Italy and Mussolini, the World-Herald continues:

"Both these leaders were ardent patriots. Both presented themselves as the friends and champions of the common people, downtrodden, and oppressed . . . And the common people heard them gladly. . . In a few short years they have lost their liberty, their democracy—and been fed on illusion in return. The totalitarian state has absorbed them utterly, their lives, their occupations, their rights, their opportunities.

"What has come is not the blessing of socialism for the masses, but the crosses of Fascism and Nazism. To these, those who were rich and those who are poor, alike are nailed.

Free Economics Only System

"The reason why an 'illusion' is all that is gained for all that was lost is, it seems to us, very clear. It is that a free economic system, with all its faults, is the only order upon which a free society and popular government can rest. Destroy the one and the others are destroyed along with it.

"Mr. Roosevelt, as earnestly and passionately as Hitler once did, assails our own capitalist system. From this "economic tyranny' from "the palace of privilege' he purposes to rescue us by a bold declaration of war upon the existing economic order, just as did other leaders in other lands.

"By his sweeping onslaught Mr. Roosevelt has precipitated uncompromising war between the government he heads and private enterprise. It will be bitter throughout the campaign. In the event of his reelection it will grow increasingly bitter through four long years.

Other Hands Tell the Story

"And just as long as that war rages, the billions of credit and the money tied up in the banks, idle and unused, will remain idle and unused. The millions of idle workers will remain unused, unless it be on public labor. Enterprise not only will be chilled, as now, but frozen. No doors of opportunity will open—save to government jobs. And in the end, victory for either side will mean desolation for all. The experience of other lands tells the story that may be told of ours.

"This newspaper believes the American system, both economic and political, is not so desperately sick, so hopelessly beyond cure, that it is necessary to kill and replace it with an order alien to our traditions, repugnant to all our aspirations.

"It is to the rendezvous with destiny that this question invites us, that all Americans will be rallying during the coming four months. Theirs, on election day, will be a fateful decision."

NOTED DEMOCRAT BACKS LANDON

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 6.—John Henry Kirby, chairman of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution and a lifelong Democrat, will give his support to Governor Alf M. Landon. By voting for the Republican presidential electors I shall retain my status as a lifelong Jeffersonian Democrat because my party has no ticket in the field this time," said the Texan.

"There are illustrious precedents to guide me in this course," Mr. Kirby declared. "Neither Woodrow Wilson nor Grover Cleveland voted for Mr. Bryan in 1896, although he was the nominee of the party. Thus, the only two real Democratic Presidents we have had since the Civil War, balked when the standard bearer proved to be unstable in his political views."

"My anxious concern for the Constitution would not permit me to vote otherwise." Mr. Kirby continued ."Conditions require that patriotism and principle be placed above a party name.

"Everyone of those Congress members who violated his oath of office and stulified his conscience to put through 'must' measures for Mr. Roosevelt should be defeated. I trust that loyal voters everywhere will center their fire on all these betrayers of Democracy who seek reelection. They abandoned the principles of the party and degraded the dignity of the Congress to become mere 'yes men' for a program of Socialism."

The Neighborly Club of Harmony Ridge held a most delightful meeting at Day Lake last Thursday. Iced punch was served by Mrs. May Luce assisted by Mrs. M. Towle and Mrs. Emily Tyler, Mrs. Raymond Halkyard of Blue Tent will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Buckler and his niece, Bishop Conaty and the Native Sons of the Golden West. Also credit must be given to Fr. Buckler's "Dick Turpins" as he called them. They were tramps, hobos and wayfarers who happened by the mission over a period of years and were fed, housed and put to work on the mission by the padre.

Unprecedented rain storms in the spring of 1911 threatened complete destruction of Santa Ynez, but Bishop Conaty and the Knights of Columbus of Los Angeles came to the rescue with funds and restoration was continued. The centenary of the mission church's dedication was celebrated on July 4, 1917.

Mission Santa Ynez, at Solvang, lies 37 1-2 miles north of Santa Barbara via scenic San Marcos Pass and the little town of Santa Ynez. This route traverses a delightful, undisturbed countryside. Another route to the Santa Ynez Mission, which is about ten miles longer, is via the Coast Highway, skirting the ocean the greater part of the way. This scenic highway leads into historic Gaviota Pass, and over the hills through Las Cruces and Buellton by a newly constructed road, the magnificent engineering of which has eliminated any dangerous curves. Visitors in Santa Barbara having Mission Santa Ynez and the northern part of Santa Barbara county as a goal, are advised to go one route and return the other. In this way they may derive the greatest pleasure from the scenic delights along both routes.

Motorists from the north may travel the Inland Route from San Francisco, State Highway No. 4, to Bakersfield, drive south 20 miles to State Highway 57, turn west to Maricopa and follow 57 to Santa Maria on the Coast Highway, proceeding thence south to Buellton and then three miles east to Mission Santa Ynez. The other route from the north is over the Coast Highway No. 101, to Buellton.
